

Music Exploratory Final Project: Your Own Idea

For this project, you will design and execute your own project idea.

- Work alone or in a group.
- Design and execute a project which explores any aspect of music. Speak to Ms. McDonell about your idea to be sure it's appropriate.
- Set goals for your project that are realistic, but challenging enough that it will take 5 classes of persistent effort to achieve.

Evaluation

	Emerging	Developing	Proficient	Extending
Productivity Skills	You did not use the time productively for this project. You needed to make decisions and solve problems faster, and to persist more diligently with the work. You needed a lot of reminders and direction to stay focused.	You may have faced challenges with making decisions, problem solving, and using the time productively. You were sometimes or mostly productive, but the final project could have been more polished.	You started working right away. You worked productively during every class, made decisions, and solved problems as they arose. Your project was completed on time.	You managed the class time exceptionally well. You may have continued to work at home.
Project Content	Your project did not explore music to a depth that was appropriate, given the time you had. The end result was not effortful, or possibly not complete.	Your project was thoughtful. You had good ideas about how to explore aspects of music and you made a sincere attempt at exploring them, but could have explored these ideas more thoroughly.	Your project was thoughtful and effortful. It explored an aspect of music to a depth that was reasonable given the time you had. The end result was effective.	Your project is exceptionally creative, original and effortful.
